

Free Republic

Fred Thompson wins state Republican straw poll - Ohio
Buckeye Firearms News ^ | September 28, 2007

Posted on 09/28/2007 12:59:13 PM PDT by 2ndDivisionVet

The Hannah Report is covering news that the Ohio Republican Party released the results of its recent straw poll for the 2008 presidential primary showing the pro-gun former U.S. Sen. Fred Thompson leading the anti-gun former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani.

In the poll, Thompson received 33 percent, Giuliani received 24 percent, former Mass. Gov. Mitt Romney received 17 percent, U.S. Sen. John McCain received 11 percent, former Ark. Gov. Mike Huckabee seven percent, U.S. Sen. Sam Brownback four percent, followed by Duncan Hunter with two percent, Ron Paul one percent, and Tom Tancredo one percent.

Nearly 2,300 Republicans cast a vote in the party's straw poll. "Ohio historically plays a central and often deciding role in choosing the next president, but we wanted to give voters here a voice in the primary process as well," said Ohio Republican Party Deputy Chairman Kevin DeWine in a statement